Your Concise New York Art Guide for October 2021

Your list of must-see, fun, insightful, and very New York art events this month.

by Cassie Packard

With October upon us (how?!), New York City arts organizations of all stripes are offering up a veritable cornucopia of compelling exhibitions and performances. From MoMA PS1's quinquennial survey featuring 47 intergenerational artists and collectives, to a presentation of the late Winfred Rembert's intricately tooled leather paintings, here's a choice slice of what we're excited about this month

Greater New York 2021

When: October 7, 2021–April 18, 2022

Where: MoMA PS1 (22-25 Jackson Avenue, Long Island City, Queens)

Every five years, MoMA PS1 mounts a survey of work by artists with a relationship to New York City.

This edition, which was postponed by a year due to the pandemic, features art across media by a fascinating selection of artists and collectives ranging from young up-and-comers like photographer and video artist Diane Severin Nguyen, who currently has a show up at SculptureCenter, to Paulina Peavy, a 20th-century West Coast spiritualist whose work has seen a resurgence of interest in recent years.
