

Paulina Peavy

Born 1901, Colorado City, CO; Died 1999, Bethesda, MD.

Paulina Peavy's (1901-1999) provocative art spanned most of the twentieth century. A radical innovator, Peavy would become the first established fine artist to be publicly associated with the movement known as astroculture.

In 1927, Peavy attended the Chouinard Art Institute in Los Angeles, where she joined a community that included members of the first American abstract art movement, Synchronism, as well as Hans Hofmann, for whom she served as a teaching assistant. She was deeply immersed in the study of ancient cultures, especially the Egyptians, probing the reaches of available esoteric literature and philosophy, thereby joining the ranks of other women channeler-artists including Hilma Af Klint, Georgiana Houghton, Emma Kunz, Agnes Pelton, and Ithell Colquhoun.

Peavy's art was featured in the 1936 exhibition Painters & Sculptors of Los Angeles at the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, and a selection of thirty of her paintings was shown at the Golden Gate International Exposition in San Francisco in 1939. Since the rediscovery of her work in 2014, a number of solo and group exhibitions have been organized including Paulina Peavy: An Etherian Channeler, curated by Laura Whitcomb, at Beyond Baroque in Venice, California (2021), and Paulina Peavy: Astrocultural Messenger, at Andrew Edlin Gallery (2023). Her work was also featured in Greater New York at MoMA/PS1 (2021), and Supernatural America: The Paranormal in American Art, at the Minneapolis Institute of Art (2022), Paulina Peavy: Etherian Channeler, a 224-page monograph written by Whitcomb, was published in 2023. Her first European solo exhibition is being held at Emanuela Campoli, Paris in June 2025.

Peavy's art is included in the permanent collections of the Los Angeles County Museum of Art, the Minneapolis Institute of Art, the National Gallery of Art, Washington D.C., Oregon State University, Corvallis, the Portland Museum of Art (Maine), and the San Francisco Museum of Modern Art.
